100 ACRE WOOD Trail System

100 Acre Wood offers nearly 2 miles of scenic trails at the heart of the Luther Forest Technology Campus (LFTC). These trails make use of some of the original logging trails along with newly constructed trails throughout the woods. At the inception of the Luther Forest Planned Development District (PDD) it was important that a significant amount of green space needed to be conserved as a special place for employees and residents to recreate. Although one component of the Technology Development Campus, this green space is an integral part of the Campus plan as it serves to balance campus design and commercial uses along with the environment. The intent is that LFTC employees, local residents, and other visitors experience upon arrival a feeling that the Campus design is in harmony with the environment.

Adjacent to 100 Acre Wood is approximately 30 acres of town owned land that will be developed as a park and recreation complex to further enhance the recreational areas within the Campus. In addition to the trails within 100 Acre Wood, roadside pathways surround the property. These pathways will eventually be connected through the campus to a regional network of multi-use trails including the Zim Smith Trail.
